THE "TRIBUNE'S" BACKSLIDING.

The JOURNAL some time ago expressed the opinion that the Salt Lake Tribune's abandonment of silver was because the contest had narrowed down to one between the Democratic and Republican parties, and that its hatred of Democracy was greater than its love for silver. The Tribune denies the implication, and in a column article, mostly in denunciation of the manner in which the Silver Republicans in Utah have been treated by the Democrats of that State, rather verifies than contradicts the correctness of the JOURNAL's opinion. In answer to the Tribune's interrogation, "Upon what authority does the JOURNAL assert and the Herald endorse the statement that the Tribune's hatred of Democracy is greater than its love for silver?" speaking for this paper, will say that the writer's opinion was founded upon the reasons given by the Tribune for the abandonment of a national principle mainly for local causes, coupled with many years acquaintance with its editor, and the knowledge that he hates the Democratic party collectively as intensely as his naturally kindly heart is capable of hating anything over, under or upon the surface of God's green earth.

It may be, as the Tribune asserts, that the Silver Republicans of Utah were not accorded the recognition to which they were entitled by the Democrats of that State. But that is a local matter which should not cause any sincere and unselfish friend of bimetalism to change his attitude upon a great national question, which ought to overshadow personality in the matter of distribution of local offices. So far as Mr. Bryan is concerned, he cannot be held responsible for the local acts of his supporters in the different States, and the Tribune fails to give, or even attempt to give, any reason why he will not be as worthy of support in 1900 as he was in 1896. He was not elected in 1896. Had he been it is quite certain that he would have made no distinction in the political antecedents of his supporters. At least there is no reason for such presumption; then, why permit the cause he represents to suffer on account of local bickering and animosities which are the outgrowth of office distribution, with which he had nothing whatever to do?

The Tribune's reference to the history of Cleveland's administration is more than far-fetched. The official acts of Mr. Cleveland were not only unendorsed, but absolutely denounced by the Democratic party in convention assembled at Chicago in 1896. Notwithstanding the efforts of the followers of his administration, the single standard element was represented by a mere handful of delegates, who withdrew and left the convention in full possession of the true Democrats of the nation, who hold the organization intact to-day and who will continue to hold it until the great financial question is settled satisfactorily to the people, and for all time. The conditions are precisely the same to-day as they were at the adjournment of the last national convention, with the single difference that the cause has grown stronger as the days, weeks, months and years have rolled by. Mr. Cleveland did not represent the Democratic party in his course upon the financial issue, and that party promptly and emphatically administered its rebuke by declaring against his policy and placing at its head a man who represented the political antipodes of the one who was displaced. The Tribune could hardly have made a greater mistake than citing Mr. Cleveland as authority for the Democratic party under its present organization, or made a poorer excuse for its abandonment of a cause, which was so strenuously opposed by that objectionable person. The Democratic party shielved Cleveland and the Tribune is now acting in unison with the national party that holds the same views upon the paramount issue as the man who was set aside in 1896, to make way for the one who was so heartily and ably supported by our Salt Lake contemporary three years ago.

The Tribune denies that the silver contest has narrowed down between the Democratic and Republican parties, or rather it asks the JOURNAL by what authority the statement is made. By the authority of all of the signs of the political times. The Democratic party will nominate Mr. Bryan upon a free silver platform, while Mr. McKinley will head the Republican national ticket upon an unequivocally golden platform, unalloyed with any international silver humbug as in 1896. The issue will be squarely made and met by the two parties, and every voter will have to choose between the two. The JOURNAL does not wish to be understood as saying that the silver battle will be waged exclusively by those who hold to all of the principles and tenets of the Democratic party, for there are hundreds of thousands of Silver Republicans who love the principle of bimetalism more than they hate the party that affords them the opportunity to demonstrate that principle through the ballot box. All such will vote for William Jennings Bryan, the Democratic nominee, in 1900, and there are so many of them, and the number are so rapidly increasing that the Tribune's following will hardly be missed when the procession commences its march.

DICK BLAND IS DEAD.

Another name has been added to the roll of our nation's illustrious dead. At an early hour yesterday morning the spirit of "Silver Dick" Bland forsook its earthly tenement and took its flight to the realm of immortality, its eternal home beyond the skies. Death's visit was not unexpected, for the victim had for many weeks been patiently and even hopefully awaiting the coming of the grim messenger to summon him from the scene of his earthly sufferings to the world where pain and sorrow are unknown.

Richard Parks Bland was born August 19, 1835, at Hartford, in the State of Kentucky. He studied law in his native town, from whence he emigrated, in the early sixties, to the then Territory of Nevada. He practiced his profession for a few years at Virginia City, and there are many old-time Constockers who retain most pleasant recollections of the quiet and unassuming man whose name has since become famous in connection with the great financial problem of the age. From Nevada he went to Missouri settling at the town of Lebanon, which was his home until the time of his death. In 1872 he was elected to Congress from his district and was re-elected continuously until 1896. In the forty-fourth Congress, he introduced the bill which was known by his name, restoring silver to its original position, with free and unlimited coinage at the mint. It passed the House in that condition but was amended in the Senate, limiting the coinage to a $2,000,000 minimum and $4,000,000 monthly maximum rate. The act remained in force until the passage of the Sherman law, by which it was repealed.

The bimetallic cause loses a powerful advocate and friend in the death of Dick Bland. It was the aim, object and hope of his life to see the white metal restored to its proper place in the currency volume of the nation. He did not live to enjoy the realization of his heart's fondest wish, but the work he inaugurated will be continued by others, and his name will ever be cherished by his co-workers in the great cause to which he gave so many of the best years of his active and useful life.

W. H. Higgins, who has chartered a train to Overton and return for next Saturday, expects to have a large crowd to handle that day. The low fare of $1.50 will tempt many a Renoite to spend a few hours among the marmoring pines of the high Sierras. The train starts at 8 o'clock.

Equal to the Occasion.

Michelot, the famous comedian, suffered a great deal from the spite of his colleagues, and found it necessary to be on the alert at every performance. On a certain occasion he had to scold a servant in one of Moliere's plays, when the "claque," which had been bribed by his rivals, began to hiss.

Michelot was by no means disconcerted. Giving the servant a couple of blows on the ear not included in the part, he extemporized as follows:

"You vile scamp of a varlet, there is nothing you think of! There you stand quietly listening to the vermin squeaking in the house and never trouble yourself to get the rat poison!"

The effect of this sally was striking. The audience broke out in loud applause and no subsequent attempt was made to hiss the actor.

Birds' Warnings.

Birds have separate notes of warning to indicate whether danger is in the form of a hawk or a cat or a man. If a hawk, cat or owl is on the move, the birds, especially blackbirds, always utter a clattering note, constantly repeated, and chickens have a special sound to indicate the presence of a hawk. But when disturbed by man the blackbirds have quite a different sound of alarm, and the chickens also. Animals on the march are usually silent, but the hamadryad baboons use several words of command, and the cries of cranes and geese when flying in ordered flocks are very possibly signals or orders.

Pulling Off Hats.

"I have not yet lived 1,000,000 years," said Mr. Goslington, "but so far I observe that there is one form of play that all boys have alike during a considerable period of their youthful existence. This consists in pulling off other boys' hats and throwing them in the street. The desire, or impulse, to do this comes at a very early age, and it remains in the boy until he is pretty well grown.

"It is not unusual to see a boy 10 or 12 years old, or even older than that, pull off another boy's hat, usually in such instances the hat of a smaller boy, and throw it away. Here the act is intended to be annoying and exasperating, and it is a pretty mean thing for the big boy to do, but little boys do this thing just out of sheer playfulness."—New York Sun.

It has become the universal remedy for that disease. M. V. Fisher of Liberty, W. Va., only repeats what has been said around the globe when he writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for several years and always with perfect success. We believe that it is not only the best cough remedy, but that is a sure cure for croup. It has saved the lives of our children a number of times." This remedy is for sale by Wm. Pinniger.

COURT HOUSE NEWS.

Two Suits Instituted Against the Pawning Estate.

Papers filed Wednesday afternoon with the County Clerk make Mrs. Clara E. Pawning, administratrix of the Pawning estate, defendant in two important suits.

Senator John P. Jones sues the estate for the recovery of $18,760 and interest amounting to $18,125, making a total of $31,875. He alleges that he loaned the late C. C. Pawning 250 shares of the capital stock of the Anglo-Nevada Assurance Company, to be used as collateral security on a note given to the Bank of California, the agreement being to either pay the value of the shares or return them to the owner. This claim was presented to the administratrix some time ago and was rejected.

The other action is brought by R. Kirman who sues the estate for the payment of a promissory note in the sum of $2,500, which amounts with interest to $2,900. This note was secured by a mortgage on certain building lots in Reno.

The delinquent list on the second instalment of taxes contains only three entries and the total amount is but $44 15.

Southern Mines.

Colonel Sutherland, the mine owner of Candelaria, tarried in Reno between trains last evening. He was on his way to San Francisco for a brief visit. The Colonel and his associates are working three-quarters of a million tons of tailings, some by cyaniding and others by a secret process. He told a JOURNAL reporter that his company was working twenty men at present, but hoped to be able to increase the force before long to at least a hundred. In the mines owned by the company are leads of silver ore which were extensively worked before the drop in the price of the white metal. There are other ledges carrying both gold and silver, and these will be opened and worked on a large scale.

Entertainment by Children.

The little folks composing the Kindergarten class of the public school entertained a number of visitors with their closing exercises yesterday morning. Owing to so many of the children being absent on account of the epidemic of measles, the original program could not be fully rendered.

The exercises were illustrative of the work of the class during the term and show the high development to which the five senses had been led. Miss Nichols and Miss Munroe, the teachers, merit congratulations for the efficiency of their work.

Graduation Exercises.

The grammar school of this city closed yesterday afternoon. Fifteen members of the eighth grade received diplomas of graduation at the hands of Prof. Bray.

The following program was given: Welcome, Miss Allene Gulling; "Outlook for San Francisco," Herbert Waltz; instrumental duet, Miss Peterson and Miss Levy; "American Homes," Leo Dickey; "Beyond," Irene Peterson; Class Prophecy, Edna Nicholas. Rev. G. H. Jones delivered an address.

Silver Peak Mines.

W. F. Holmes, the well known mining engineer, returned last night from a professional visit to Silver Peak, where the famous silver and gold mines recently sold for $665,000 are located. Mr. Holmes was reticent as to the plans of the new owners, but it was intimated that work on an extensive scale would not be begun for six months, which time the former owners have for the redemption of the property, it having been sold under foreclosure of mortgage.

All Serene in Plumas.

David Ramelli, the mill owner, and Charles Roberts, the hotel proprietor, two of the leading citizens of Clairville, are spending a few days in Reno. They report all quiet along the Feather, every man in the camp at work and the hum of peaceful industry resounding through the land. Nobody was hurt in the recent little affair up in the big timber. In fact, say both these gentlemen, Clairville is one of the meekest hamlets in the mountains.

Has Resumed Practice.

Dr. H. Bergstein has resumed the practice of his profession and is located in his former suite of offices, rooms 4, 5 and 6, in the Reno Investment building. He makes a specialty of mental and nervous diseases, these ailments having been the subject of exhaustive study prior to and during his incumbency as Superintendent of the Nevada Hospital. Dr. Bergstein's card appears in the JOURNAL.

They Came Not.

At the meeting called by the County Commissioners for the other evening to hold a conference with deputations from the Improvement Society and fire trustees, the aforesaid commissioners were conspicuous by their absence. Important matters were to have been considered and another meeting may be called, it is hoped, with a better attendance.

Was a Hold-up Contemplated?

A trainman on the Southern Pacific reports a suspicious incident that occurred the other night. As train No. 4 was drawing up to a way station a short distance up the road, the train men discovered three men on top of the expresscar. In making their hasty escape, one of the fellows lost a highwayman's mask.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Makes the food more delicious and wholesome

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Is It Malaria or Alum?

Languor, loss of appetite, indigestion and often feverishness are the common symptoms of a physiological condition termed "malaria." All these symptoms may be and frequently are the effect of the use of alum baking powders in food making. There is no question about the poisonous effect of alum upon the system. It obstructs digestion, prostrates the nerves, coagulates and de vitalizes the blood. All this has been made clear, thanks to physicians, boards of health and food commissions. So "highly injurious to the health of the community" does the eminent head of the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Barker, consider the alum baking powders, that he says "their sale should be prohibited by law."

Under these circumstances it is worth the while of every housewife to employ the very little care that is necessary to keep so dangerous an element from the food of her family.

A pure cream of tartar baking powder, which is the only kind that should be used, ought to cost about 45 to 50 cents a pound. Therefore, if you are paying much less, something is wrong; if you are paying twenty-five cents or less per pound, the powder is certainly made from alum.

Always bear these simple facts in mind when purchasing baking powder. —Popular Science Monthly.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night; and two bottles, has absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz. Thus writes H. O. Hamrick & Co of Shelby N. C. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

The Coming Relay.

According to a letter received yesterday there is a difference of opinion and a deadlock between the riders of the Capital City Wheelmen and the racing board of the club. The former are eager to come to Reno on the Fourth, but the latter want a bigger percentage of the gate receipts.

It is confidently hoped that an understanding will be reached and the relay held.

A telegram was later received from the Secretary of the racing board indicating their willingness to come to terms satisfactory to the local club.

Important Announcement.

Removal of S. Emrich's dry goods store to store next door south, on account of rebuilding a new front and other alterations in place of business presently occupied. The store being very much smaller, I am compelled to reduce my stock and will therefore allow 10 per cent discount on every dollar purchased for cash from 50 cents, upward until further notice. Will move on 17th of this month.
